DEFINITIONS:

CPD Home is committed to supporting its subscribers:

- to undertake meaningful continuing professional development (CPD);
- to meet their Continuing Professional Development (CPD) requirements under the Medical Board of Australia (MBA) Registration Standard: Continuing Professional Development <https://www.medicalboard.gov.au/Registration-Standards.aspx>; and
- to demonstrate that they have completed the required CPD in the event they are audited by the MBA.

CPD Homes Criteria for AMC Accreditation

CPD Homes under the Criteria for AMC Accreditation of CPD Homes are required to regularly audit medical practitioners' CPD records. Audits are conducted to assess educational quality of activities undertaken and the completeness of evidence (i.e. certifications of completion/attendance) recorded.

The ACAM CPD Home is committed to the continuous improvement of the services it provided to its subscribers and the quality and relevance of its CPD. Information gathered from the CPD Home's audits of subscribers will help identify academic and clinical trends or provide or indicates how the CPD Program or service provision could be improved.

Purpose

By conducting auditing of its subscribers, ACAM CPD Home:

- demonstrates compliance with the Criteria for AMC Accreditation of CPD Homes;

- provides an accountability mechanism that supports and substantiates participating subscribers' compliance with the MBA's Registration Standard: Continuing Professional.

Subscriber auditing enables early identification of subscribers who may need support with:

- preparing their written continuing professional development (CPD) PLAN;
- identifying educationally compliant CPD activities; and
- progressing, recording, verifying and keeping track of these activities against the Medical Board Registration Standard.

Allows for intervention in response to situations of exceptional circumstance or special consideration whilst providing a mechanism for informing the subscriber of their own quality improvement activities.

Finally, auditing creates community confidence that the CPD activities completed by participating subscribers relevant to their scope of practice with the aim for continuous improvement their clinic practice.
